DESCRIPTION :

The project aims at generating concrete objectives and results by following a double thread unifying the participating countries to strengthen, on the one hand, their socio-cultural link (which needs to be "protected" against the uncertainties generated by events such as that of the Brexit) and, on the other, their didactic innovation and promote equal training standards and high quality teaching techniques.

Therefore, for each priority identified, the project pursues the following objectives:

Open education and innovative practices in a digital era

-favoring, through transnational mobility, the contact among learners and teachers of different nationalities to open them to intercultural dialogue and expand the school's local educational dimension towards European horizons.

-encouraging teachers and learners to use digital tools in their daily teaching/learning routine.

Social and educational value of European cultural heritage

-promoting learners' greater curiosity and awareness about the different socio and, at the same time, directing them to the positive acceptance and promotion of the different European traditions;

-stimulating pupils' language acquisition through direct exchanges with other European peers.

-enhancing the knowledge and use of practical teaching methods, such as that of Project Based Learning, through the organization of a training activity destined to teachers, that will be able to share resources, experiences, ideas, etc. with the subsequent objective of creating a Community of Practice that will discuss new teaching methodologies beyond the project duration;
